Two Demon Gridders Sign Pro Contracts

Two Northwestern football players have been signed by professional teams.

End Corwyn Aldredge was drafted by both Cleveland of the National Football League and the Boston Patriots of the American Football League. He was Boston's fifth round choice and Cleveland's sixth round selection. He was signed by Cleveland with, perhaps, the best contract ever offered to a Demon griddier.

Tackle Charles Ragus was signed by the Kansas City Chiefs of the AFL. He received a bonus although he had not been drafted by teams of either league.

Five former Northwestern players saw action in the pro leagues this year. Charlie Tolar, Charlie Hennigan, Jerry Fowler, and Sammy Joe Odom played with Houston and Jackie Smith has been an end and punter for the St. Louis Cardinals.
